NEW DRAFT BILL PROVIDES FOR FREE EDUCATION OF BOYS

Senator Reed's Amendment to Manpower Bill Authorizes 2 Years' Free Schooling Then for All Over 21.

IS APPROVED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Senator Chamberlain Predicts Passage of Measure Providing Extension of Draft Age to From 18 to 45

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The Senate Military Committee today voted to report favorably at once the administration man-power bill extending draft ages from 18 to 45 years, but with an amendment by Senator Reed of Missouri to have the Government provide two years education free for all boys under 21 years old, to be given after the war.

Senator Chamberlain announced that the bill would be reported Thursday and that if a quorum is present in response to the requests for Senators to return at once, the unanimous consent agreement under which the Senate recessed until Aug. 24 will be set aside and consideration of the measure taken up next Monday.

The Reed amendment affects both army and navy volunteers and those who have been drafted. Under its provisions upon application the youths would be given "an education at the expense of the Government at approved educational institutions."

Approved educational institutions, the period of such education being equivalent in point of time to the period by him served in the army or navy, but shall not exceed two years.

Application for such educational privilege, the amendment provides, "shall be made within six months after discharge and the applicant shall begin his studies promptly after his application shall have been approved. Rules and regulations for carrying out this provision shall be promulgated by the President."

Another amendment offered by Senator Reed and accepted by the committee provides that orders granting deferred classification for industrial reasons shall be reviewed when the man whose classification has been given ceases to work at such occupation while physically able to do so.

Still another amendment offered by the Missouri Senator would permit soldiers and sailors regardless of age, who have either volunteered or been drafted to receive commissions. They also would be made eligible for admission to officers' schools.

The measure was also amended so as to provide that the wife of a soldier or sailor shall not be disqualified for any position under the Government because she is a married woman.

Passage of the bill was predicted by Senator Chamberlain in a statement after the committee had decided to report the bill favorably.

$10-A-YEAR TAX ON OCCUPATION WRITTEN INTO REVENUE BILL

House Committee to Hear McAdoo's Excess and War Profits Tax Plan Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Special taxes of $10 a year on occupations or professions, except the war industry trades, farmers, teachers and ministers of the gospel, were written into the $3,000,000,000 war revenue bill today by the House Ways and Means Committee. A similar tax was placed upon any business with receipts of $200 a year or more, with a levy of $25 a year on wholesale houses with receipts of $200,000 or more.

Secretary McAdoo will appear before the committee tomorrow to discuss the Treasury's new plans for an excess profits tax based on rates in the present law, with an alternative war profits tax. This is the main issue between the committee and the Treasury.

In addition to the ordinary duty of 10 per cent on all jewelry sold at wholesale, the committee put on a 10 per cent tax on retail sales of jewelry composed wholly or partly of platinum. This is designed to discourage such use of platinum during the war.

front, according to today's War Office announcement. The statement reads: "There were no events of importance reported during the course of the night on the battle front. Several enemy raids in the Vosges and Upper Alsace were without result. So far 33 German divisions have been identified in the fighting. The indications are that the enemy's reserves are gradually being exhausted and he is drawing troops out of the line to extend his flanks and cover any gaps. This is an operation, however, which can only be carried out to a limited degree."

ALLIED ATTACKS "FREQUENTLY BROKE DOWN," BERLIN SAYS

Claims That 518 Enemy Planes Were Shot Down by Germans at Front in July.

BERLIN, via London, Aug. 12.—"On the battle front between the Ancre and the Avre the day has been quiet," said the official communication issued this (Monday) evening. "Between the Avre and the Oise many enemy attacks failed."

An earlier statement said: "Between the Yser and the Ancre, partial enemy thrusts frequently broke down before our lines. North of the Yser we beat back a strong British attack. The enemy in the early morning launched violent attacks north of the Somme and between the Somme and Lihons. They were repulsed chiefly by our fire and sometimes by our counter attacks. In the fighting around Lihons the enemy advanced beyond that place toward the east. Our counter attack drove him back to the northern and eastern edges of the village."

"There have been violent partial engagements between Lihons and the Avre. Southwest of Chaumont we attacked the enemy and took Hallu. On both sides of the Amiens-Roye road we repulsed enemy attacks."

"Between the Avre and the Oise strong enemy attacks continued until nightfall. They were completely repulsed."

"The French suffered especially heavy losses near Tilloy. By advancing their artillery, which followed closely after their tanks, they tried to effect a breakthrough here. Our infantry and artillery shot the enemy to pieces before our lines."

"Seventeen enemy airplanes and four captive balloons were shot down yesterday. In July, 518 enemy airplanes were shot down by our anti-aircraft guns. Thirty-six captive balloons also were shot down. Two hundred and thirty-nine of these airplanes are in our possession, and the others were seen to fall inside the enemy's position. We lost 125 airplanes and 63 captive balloons in battle during the same period."

Germans Realize Need of Holding Chaulnes-Roye-Noyon Line.
PARIS, Aug. 12.—The furious counter attacks which the Germans continued to launch yesterday are attributed here to their imperative need of holding the Chaulnes-Roye-Noyon line, the loss of which would result in a disaster to them. The counter attacks were all broken, although the enemy had reached ground with which he was perfectly familiar in previous fighting and was occupying a line which gave him good holding ground because of the old defenses there.

2000 More Prisoners, 30 More Guns for French.
WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 12.—In yesterday's (Monday's) fighting the French added 2000 prisoners and more than 30 guns to their captures.

Allied Aviators Bring Down 53 German Planes and 4 Balloons.
LONDON, Aug. 12.—An official communication dealing with aviation issued last night, said: "Twenty-nine hostile machines were destroyed in air fighting during the day and 24 others were driven down out of control. Four hostile balloons were shot down in flames. Five of our machines are missing."

Number of Machine Guns Taken Since July 18 Put at 10,000.
By the Havas Agency.
PARIS, Aug. 12.—Since the beginning of the allied counter-offensive on July 18 the allies have taken more than 70,000 prisoners and more than 1000 guns. The Echo de Paris today, in addition, it estimates more than 10,000 machine guns have been captured from the enemy.

Glen Alleged Assassins Give Bond.
St. Louis, Aug. 12.—The St. Louis police court today granted bond to Glen Powell and Glen Shunheiser, alleged assassins of Mayor William B. Harrison, charged with attacking Miss Mary Brown of Alton when she asked them to direct her to the Hotel in Granite City, have been released on $10,000 bond from the county jail at Edwardsville. The bond was signed by George Darling and Thomas F. Leyden of Granite City, and Charles Henry of Glen Carbon.

Germans Quarrel Over Which Faction Brought America Into the War

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The violent controversies are raging in Germany, as a result of the second Marne battle, between the Liberals and the pan-Germans, over the questions of who is responsible for America's entrance into the war. A dispatch from Switzerland today says both sides are refusing to accept responsibility for American intervention.

The Liberals are accusing the pan-Germans of having provoked the unrestricted submarine warfare. The latter protest and affirm that, no matter what the cause, America's entrance into the war was certain.

OUR MEN REPULSE ENEMY ATTACKS ON FISMETTE

Our front lines, roads and villages with feverish activity. The American front runs straight from Bazachies, along the Soissons-Rheims road, then along the railway to Fismette, then along the railway to Fismette and beyond. Fismette lies evacuated by both sides, and being rapidly razed by bombardment of our own guns, as well as the German guns.

Prisoners supply information to the effect that the Germans are hard at work on the positions far behind the west heights, as well as along the Aisne. The German attack is still limited almost altogether to batteries of a caliber lower than 150, and they would certainly have scores of heavier guns unlimbered if they meant to make a prolonged sally on the Vesle.

Many troops with which they are facing us are in a pitifully enfeebled state. In the Ninety-third regiment, Fourth Guards Division, several companies have lost 80 per cent of their effectives. One company is reported to have lost eight men. The Fourth Guards were supposed to go to Flanders in July, but it was decided a short time ago, according to captured documents, to keep them in this sector.

The enemy still is seeking to conceal his activities from us by every possible means. He assaults our planes and our balloons with grim energy. Six Fokkers went after one of our balloons this afternoon. The aeroplanes did not descend by the parachute route and the envelope of his craft was punctured by bullets. These were patched up, and within an hour the same observer was aloft again in the same balloon. Eight German planes tried to down one of our photographic machines, but the American pursuit flight beat him back and the photographs reached headquarters in safety.

BEULAH BINFORD ON WAY TO FRANCE AS RED CROSS NURSE

Girl Who Figured in Henry Clay Beattie Jr. Murder Case Uses Social to Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Beulah Binford, who, when 18, with yellow curls down her back, was "The Girl in the Case," in the case of Henry Clay Beattie Jr. of Richmond, Va., who was convicted of the murder of his wife on the Midlothian turnpike of Virginia the night of July 16, 1911, has just been in New York on her way to France as a Red Cross nurse.

No one knows her as Beulah Binford now, for she is using an assumed name.

CONDITIONS IN GERMANY SAID TO BE 'FRIGHTFUL'

Socialists Are Rabid, Most Everyone Crying for Peace, Ehret, Multimillionaire, Home, Asserts.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Conditions in Germany are "frightful," according to three American citizens who arrived in an Atlantic port yesterday on the Norwegian-American liner Bergenfjord.

The three were George Ehret, brewer, whose estate, valued at $400,000, lately was taken over by the Alien Property Custodian, and Mrs. Ida M. O'z of Montclair, N. J., and Miss Florence R. MacAvoy of Hoboken. They had been in Germany since before the war.

Ehret, who is 83, said: "Conditions were frightful when we left, and I think will be getting worse daily. Socialists are very rabid, and more liberties than ever before. They are openly crying for peace, too; in fact, everyone in Germany is."

"The people of Germany who are not of the military classes believe that President Wilson is a great executive."

Ehret, who said he was carried aboard the ship in Denmark, but who walked ashore here, denied he had bought any German bonds either before or after the United States and Germany entered a state of war.

"When war was declared in 1914," he said, "I was asked to buy bonds, but I said that I was neutral and declined. That was before the United States entered the struggle and you may be sure I haven't bought any since then."

Aged Know They Must Die.
Miss MacAvoy said:

"Dresden is a city of specters. Men, women and children have lost weight to the point of emaciation. The old people know they must die. And there is no proper nourishment for the children."

"We are crows in Dresden in place of chickens and were quite surprised to find them toothsome," Miss MacAvoy continued. "The meat of a crow is dark, but thick and tender. The thigh, for instance, is like a chicken's and not like a pigeon's."

"There is substance to it. But fats practically were unobtainable. We left Germany on March 23, which was just at the time the German people were most enthusiastic over what they called the peace of the future that had just been launched."

"They had been told there was nothing to worry about from the Americans, that U-boats would sink all transports. You may imagine how wonderful it seemed to me when we got to Denmark to hear the Americans were winning great victories in France, and that everything was just the opposite to what we had understood the situation in Germany."

"What is the German attitude toward the war as you saw it?" Miss MacAvoy was asked.

"There is no doubt that the officers are enthusiastic about it. And so are many of the poorer classes who were making small wages before the war, but are making unbelievably high wages now."

"Do you believe from what you have observed during your four years in war-time Germany that there is any likelihood of a revolution there?" was asked.

"No," was the reply, "and for three reasons. First, the German workers, a great many of them women, are earning higher wages now than ever before in their lives. Second, the Germans are so thoroughly cowed that there is no one to revolt. And third, the general unshakable belief is that Germany is fighting a war of defense against a steel wall of enemies."

Women's Hats Hold Up Sailing.
"When we left Germany, March 23 last, we were searched thoroughly, but with politeness, at the border. The Germans cut from the top of our hats the crowns which were made of paper. We were not allowed to take any paper out."

"That was the fault of our German milliner who made the hats. As they would not stay on our heads without the crowns, we refused to go until we were given pins or something to hold them on."

ST. LOUIS SOLDIER AND BELLEVILLE MARINE DEAD

Sergeant Carter in "Dead of Accident and Other Causes" Report; Private Stark's Wounds Fatal.

A St. Louisian is reported dead "from accident and other causes" and a Belleville man dead from wounds received in action, in today's Army and marine casualty list. They are:

Sergeant George A. Carter, 29 years old, supply company, Fourth Infantry, of 1217 Mississippi avenue, died of accident and other causes.

Private Hugo J. Stark, 25 years old, Eighty-fourth company, Sixth Regiment of Marines, of 226 North Jackson street, Belleville; died June 7, from wounds.

Sergeant Carter's wife, Mrs. Agnes Carter, said today that she had not been notified of his death. She received a letter from him Aug. 9. He enlisted in the army last November.

Private Stark was a son of the late Frank Stark, a veteran letter carrier. He resided with his aunt, Mrs. William Belcour, of the Jackson street address. He enlisted in May, 1917, and went overseas last October. He is believed to have been wounded in the battle of Belleau Wood. He wrote in May that he had been in hard fighting. "We showed the Hun we were there," he wrote. Prior to enlisting he worked in the St. Louis office of the Standard Oil Co.

Sheridan Cardwell, 39 years old, of Thompsonville, Ill., listed yesterday as killed in action, was a brother of Mrs. Sophia Aiken, Mrs. Lola Aiken, Naomi Parker and Miss Mary Cardwell, all of East St. Louis, and a stepson of the Rev. Green Knight of Thompsonville. He had been in the service 10 years.

LEVY ON INCOME FOR WAR FUNDS

Residents of Mount Olive, Ill., have levied an assessment of 1 per cent on all earnings and all income of every man in the city and surrounding country for war aid, to be collected monthly. The War Chest Committee of the local Council of Defense is favoring the idea.

When asked today what measures would be taken to enforce the new ruling if any person was slow in contributing, residents said "Just wait until they see what they get."

CHILDREN OF POOR LACK MILK

Offspring of Three Widows Suffering Because of High Price.

Director of Public Welfare Schmoll today said the Police Department had reported to him three families in which children were suffering from want of milk. The heads of the families are widows, who have been unable to buy milk because of its increased price.

Director Schmoll said the police would continue to report cases of distress and that he would endeavor to arrange with the Pure Milk Commission to supply the needy with milk. He said also he would endeavor to persuade the distributors to deliver milk to such families at a cash-and-carry price of 10 cents a quart.

$15,000 Fire Loss at New Athens.
Fire destroyed the Odd Fellows' Building and adjoining furniture store of George Trout at New Athens, Ill., 12 miles south of Belleville, at 2 a. m. today. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

Alfred Hooper, 42 years old, and S. Spaulding, 41, both of Brooklyn, were fined $25 and costs each in Justice Brady's court today on charges of stealing merchandise from freight cars in the East Side yards of the Illinois Central Railroad, where both are employed.

Women's Hats Hold Up Sailing.
"When we left Germany, March 23 last, we were searched thoroughly, but with politeness, at the border. The Germans cut from the top of our hats the crowns which were made of paper. We were not allowed to take any paper out."

"That was the fault of our German milliner who made the hats. As they would not stay on our heads without the crowns, we refused to go until we were given pins or something to hold them on."

"In leaving Germany we were told that we could take nothing but our clothing," Mrs. O'z explained. "But we found there was no law to stop us from hiring a freight car and having it attached to a passenger train and thus taking out our precious trunks and furniture. So we did that and rode through Germany with our possessions."

SALVATION ARMY BEGINS DRIVE

The collection of funds for the Salvation Army, which wants to get $75,000 here this week for war work, started today. Speakers were on downtown corners, at factories and in stores. Solicitors went among the groups that gathered to hear the speaking.

In the residence district a canvass is being made by women, who have chartered the city and are covering it systematically. The campaign is being sponsored by the Elks' Lodge, and many of the solicitors are members and their wives. A dinner was given last night at Hotel Statler, at which Adj. Starboard, who recently returned from France, spoke.

Men and women making collections will meet each day this week at the Platters Hotel and report on their progress.

A Dead Stomach

Of What Use Is It?

Thousands of people throughout America are taking the slow death treatment daily. They are murdering their own stomachs. They are ignoring the fact that their sublime ignorance is putting aside the laws of nature. This is no sensational statement; it is a startling fact, the truth of which any honorable physician will not deny.

These thousands of people are swallowing daily huge quantities of papain and other strong digesters, made especially to digest the food in the stomach without any aid at all from the digestive membrane of the stomach. When the stomach is relieved of its burden, they do not realize that they are building up the run-down stomach. Then indigestion, belching, sour stomach and headache will grip the stomach, and the body will be ailing every where, and by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., who guarantees them.

Weakness Relieved by "Balmwort"
Many men and women gain no strength. The least exertion tires them. Dull aches, pains like rheumatism, depression, or "blues" come easily. Ambition and energy are always at low ebb. What is the cause? The cause may vary—but if the kidneys and bladder are not doing their work perfectly—you can make a bet—that's where the trouble lies. This lady suffered 12 years: Mrs. E. Klipp, 644 W. 12th St., Oak Park, Ill., writes: "Your Balmwort Kidney Tablets certainly have done wonders for me. I have been ailing for 12 years with kidney and bladder weakness, but feel like a NEW WOMAN NOW." All druggists sell them.—ADVERTISE-MENT.

HOSPITAL UNIT BEING FORMED

Maj. Smith of Jefferson Barracks Gathers Members from Middle West.

A hospital unit, to be known as Base Hospital Unit No. 131, is being organized under the supervision of Maj. H. H. Smith, stationed at Jefferson Barracks. Twenty-four of the 35 officers, 30 of the 100 nurses and 177 of the 200 men needed for the unit have been accepted.

The unit will be sent to France to handle a hospital of 1000 beds. The new unit has gathered its officers, nurses and enlisted men from the Middle West, and is not so thoroughly a St. Louis body as Base Hospital Unit 21, which was formed here soon after the United States entered the war, and which has been in France more than a year.

CABLEGRAM TO COL. RUMBOLD

Men With Him in Porto Rico 20 Years Ago Send Greetings.

A cablegram of greeting was sent today to Col. Frank M. Rumbold, commanding the 12th Field Artillery in France, by St. Louisans who served under him in Battery A, Missouri Volunteers, in Porto Rico, Aug. 13, 1898. The message read, "Fellatations to you and greetings to your regiment on this twentieth anniversary of the advance on Cayey, from your old battery comrades."

The battery, on the morning named, marched into the mountains of Southern Porto Rico, from the city of Guayama, to destroy some Spanish block houses which impeded the army in its advance across the island. As the battery was about to open fire a messenger arrived with the news that peace had been declared between the United States and Spain.

GERMAN ALIEN HELD FOR THEFTS OF WAGONLOAD OF CHINAWARE

$18-a-Week Clerk Owns $8000 Double Flat and Lives in Bungalow Cooking $4500.

Carl Elsner, 50 years old, a registered German alien, was arrested today at his home, 3711 Hydraulic avenue, charged with stealing several hundred dollars' worth of expensive china and glassware from the Krenning-Westermann China Co., 916 North Sixth street. The stolen goods were recovered at Belleville to the aviation camp to cart them to police headquarters.

Elsner, the police say, confessed that he had taken the china and glassware in the last several years. He is an $18-a-week clerk at the L. R. Neubath Liquor Co. in the same building. Several times he received the china from employees of the china company in exchange for whisky, which he said, he took from his employer's stock. He owns an $8000 double flat at 2646 Accomac street and a $4500 bungalow in which he lives.

WOMAN INJURED BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Ernestine Kinzel, 63 years old, of 218 Virginia avenue, St. Louis County, was knocked down by a street car at the intersection of the street and East Grand avenue at 8 o'clock last night. She had just left a physician's office, where she had been treated for an injury suffered in an accident a week ago.

In last night's accident her skull was fractured and her right shoulder dislocated. She was taken to the city hospital in a critical condition. The motorman, Edward Hargis of 5593A Virginia avenue, was arrested.

GUESTS GO TO GARDEN PARTY IN AIRPLANES

Fly From Scott Field to Visit
Mrs. Gardner in Jefferson
City.

MISS ANNIE LAURIE BLOODWORTH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bloodworth of the Hamilton Hotel, has returned home after a week's visit at Jefferson City. Miss Bloodworth and her hostess, Miss Overman, were guests of honor at a garden party given by Gov. and Mrs. Gardner at the State mansion Saturday evening, when a number of army and navy officers from St. Louis and Scott Field were guests. The officers of the flying corps made the trip from Scott Field to Jefferson City in airplanes, and returned by the air route.

Some difficulty in finding a place for a landing for six planes was encountered when the idea was first broached to Mrs. Gardner that some of her guests should fly to her party, but a friendly farmer near town offered his big pasture as a landing, and the six planes were parked there, under guard, while their pilots attended the garden party at the Governor's mansion.

Miss Bloodworth returned home Sunday to meet her brother, Carleton Bloodworth, who is in the navy, and who is spending a four days furlough at home. He will depart Thursday to rejoin his ship, which now is stationed off the Atlantic coast.

Social Items

Mrs. E. C. Cherbonnier of Ferguson is entertaining her son, Lieut. Lawrence Cherbonnier, who has returned from France and is spending a short leave here before departing for his new station at Camp Pike, Ark. Lieut. Cherbonnier belongs to the 138th Infantry, but went abroad several months in advance of his regiment. He has been in active service for the last two months, and has been detached from the 138th to serve as instructor in bayonet work at Camp Pike. He will depart for that post next week.

Secretary David F. Houston of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Mrs. Houston, with their children, have gone to their summer home at Woods Hole, Mass., for the late summer. Secretary Houston will make frequent trips to and from Washington from Woods Hole, to attend to official business, while Mrs. Houston visits with her old St. Louis friends who are summering in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Everett George Sewell and her brother, Arthur A. Wait of Miami, Fla., are visiting St. Louis friends and are staying at the Usona Hotel. Mrs. Sewell and Mr. Wait formerly lived in St. Louis.

Miss Katherine Treat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Treat of 5540 Delmar boulevard, departed Monday to join her mother at Waukegan, Mich. Mrs. Treat and her daughter will return home early in September, and Miss Treat will depart about Sept. 15 for the East to resume her studies at Vassar.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Schotten, who are at their country home, near Clayton, have received a cable message from their daughter, Miss Zoe Schotten, announcing her safe arrival in France. Miss Schotten has gone abroad to do Red Cross work, and for the present will act as nurses' aid in one of the base hospitals.

Mrs. F. A. Moser, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Benedict, 2843 Sidney street, will return to Atlanta, Ga., this week to be with her husband, Lieut. Moser, who is an instructor at Camp Gordon, Ga.

Here's That Shirt Sale—More Than 6000 of Them—It's a Wonder!

Regular $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 Shirts

The standing of this store and its tremendous buying power and ability to handle the biggest purchases and turn them over quickly was never more forcibly illustrated than in this transaction.

This is not a planned event, in fact it is one of the biggest surprises of the year—to us as well as you!

One of St. Louis' largest and best shirtmakers had a surplus lot of more than 6000 shirts. He wanted to dispose of the entire lot in a jiffy—to one party if possible. He offered them to us and the deal was closed in record time.

Now, Mr. Man, Get Ready to Buy Shirts as You Have Never Bought Them Before!

If you buy less than a half dozen of them, you are doing yourself a great injustice—if possible get an even dozen, for these are indeed wonderful shirts at the price. You have paid $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 for shirts of these very qualities.

Made of high-grade woven madras, Russian cords, fine mercerized cloths, 80 square percales, crepe cloths and fine reps.

Come in the neatest and most refined patterns that we have seen in men's cotton shirts this year. All made in the 5-button coat style, soft and laundered cuff effects—all sizes from 14 to 17½; choice, $1.44.

Parade to Be Followed by Talks by Governor, Mayor and Archbishop.

The formal opening of the soldiers' sailors' and marines' club, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, will be held Wednesday, Aug. 22, at Grand avenue and Olive street. A parade through the neighborhood will be followed by addresses by Archbishop Glennon, Gov. Gardner and Mayor Kiel. The parade will be headed by the military bands from Jefferson Barracks and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. Soldiers who can be excused from the barracks for the evening will participate.

The club will be turned over to soldiers and sailors next Saturday night. It is to be nonsectarian in character and modeled after the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club in the Post-Dispatch Building. The Catholic Women's League has agreed to furnish two members every day to act as matrons.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM
 I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Election Board's Action.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 In order to answer the unjust and unfair attacks made upon me by the Republic and the Star on account of the publication of the names of the judges and clerks of the election in the Post-Dispatch the day after the primaries, I desire to make the following statements of the law and facts. First, the public will thoroughly understand the motives for the attack.
 It is charged that in letting this advertisement to the Post-Dispatch I violated the law and debauched an important public position. This is false.
 Section 4196 of the Revised Statutes required the publication of the names of the judges and clerks on Wednesday, Aug. 7, 1918, in two papers "of opposite politics" published in the English language. Neither the spirit nor the letter of the law requires that the two papers publishing the advertisements shall be Democratic and Republican in politics. The only requirement is that they shall be "of opposite politics." One might be a Democratic paper and the other a Socialist paper. One might be a Republican and the other an independent Democratic paper. Neither paper receiving the advertisement is required to be a party organ. The law merely provides that the two papers receiving the advertisement shall be "of opposite politics." The Board of Election Commissioners decided, and it was a question solely for their decision, that the Post-Dispatch and the Globe-Democrat are "of opposite politics." We based this decision upon the history of those two papers. The Post-Dispatch, under its present management, has consistently opposed every candidate for President, Governor of this State, and Mayor of this city that the Globe-Democrat has supported in 25 years. The Post-Dispatch has always vigorously opposed the doctrine of protection, while the Globe-Democrat has just as vigorously advocated it.
 If this record does not make these two papers opposite politics, then, in the name of common honesty and common sense, what does?
 If the Post-Dispatch is of opposite politics to the Globe-Democrat, then the Post-Dispatch is just as much entitled to the advertisement on political grounds as the Republic. If the board had two papers to choose from, the Post-Dispatch and the Republic, then it is manifest that the Republic's complaint against the board for letting the contract to the Post-Dispatch without a shadow of justification. This personal assault upon me is wanton and willful, solely to seek vengeance on a public official because of the loss of an advertisement. GLENDY B. ARNOLD, Chairman Board of Election Commissioners.

Aridity Seems the Rule.

Yesterday in Kansas City I procured Thursday's Post-Dispatch and noted Mr. Gundlach's letter on the condition of our lawns, parks and streets. I had just taken a two-hour run over the boulevard system of Kansas City the previous evening, and had remarked how arid and parched everything was. The appearance of the parks, lawns and parkways is certainly much worse than in St. Louis. Water is evidently used there much more sparingly than with us, if one is to judge by the grass in the parks and lawns. As for the other streets aside from boulevards and certain important thoroughfares, the holes and bumps far surpass those in St. Louis. Chicago may have improved in the last month, but in July it was about like St. Louis in vegetation and street repairs.
 This is no brief for our present officials. Heaven knows they have leagues to go to catch up with the high standard set by our worthy predecessors in the past. Let's get them on to activity. Let's make them produce results.

But all is not lost. And it is interesting to know that at least one city that prides itself upon its superlative progressiveness has failed to go to catch up with us in the state of streets, parks and lawns.

TRAVELER.

Neglected Tracks and Wires.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I would like to call attention through your columns to the very bad condition of the United Railways' tracks and wires—especially on the Union avenue line, and particularly in that section extending from Easton to Page avenue.

At one place on the Union line, at the corner of Wells and Union, the track appears to be broken and when the cars pass over it they bump up and down, making a noise that is something awful to the residents of the neighborhood—particularly the old and sick people, and as the wheels of the cars or the tracks either do not appear to be oiled any more and are worn out, the state of affairs can well be imagined by the average person.

The wires, too, seem to be very much out of order between Easton and Ridge avenues, for when a trolley gets off it is never replaced until the car has gone several blocks, and the sputtering and sizzling all that time is certainly very annoying.

Since the poor public have been called upon to pay additional fares, don't you think they are entitled to some little consideration, and would like to know through your valuable paper in the interest of many old and loyal citizens of St. Louis if something cannot be done to remedy the above?

A CONSTANT READER.

THE DEFENSE COUNCIL'S DUTY.

So far as the Missouri Council of Defense is concerned it has been exonerated by all candidates of responsibility for the pre-election statement accusing former Gov. Folk of reflecting on Missouri's loyalty in a campaign speech. Mr. Folk has cleared the council.

For those who were concerned in the sending out of the statement the only thing for the council to do is justice. It should ascertain the truth and fix the actual responsibility. Its action should be taken wholly for the benefit of the State and the State's work in the war, without regard to partisan passions and revenge.

The excellent service of Secretary Saunders entitles him to a fair hearing and unbiased judgment as to his motive and his responsibility. Vindicating Missouri from charges of disloyalty is always in order, but, whether true or false, it was an act of folly to connect the council in any way with a political campaign, and the council should make sure that nothing of that kind is repeated.

The council should be vindicated and the offenders rebuked with as little disruption of its organization and interruption of its work as possible. Politics ought to be avoided as much in settling this matter as in the general conduct of the council. The question of raising money for the council's work or of refunding the sum advanced by loyal citizens ought not to be in any wise mixed up with this squabble. The duty of the State to carry on this work is clear and interference with it to satisfy personal and political revenge is not the part of good citizenship.

The carrying on of war work is infinitely more important than the interests of any party, faction or politician.

HOME RULE OR ANOTHER FIASCO?

The statement of Edward Shortt, secretary for Ireland, that he is to draft a new home rule bill during parliamentary recess is one of exceeding importance—it affords a lesson.

When the war began, home rule was on the statute books, with Ulster at the point of rebellion. Domestic quarrels were dropped for the moment, but the "era of good feeling" was brief. Mr. Redmond's dramatic pledge of Irish support in the war was followed by tactics certain to check Irish recruiting if not expressly designed for that purpose.

Casement's exploit and the Dublin rebellion in April, 1916, shook the Government from lethargy. Lloyd George, who had taken office with the understanding that he would enact home rule, arranged with Mr. Redmond and Mr. Carson a compromise home rule bill, temporarily excluding Ulster. The Lords balked, demanding that exclusion be permanent. Home rule could have been had in 1914 on those terms.

In May, 1914, they invited "Irishmen themselves to put forward their own proposals" in convention. In April, 1918, Lloyd George announced that Irish conscription and home rule were both resolved upon. On June 25 he repeated his promise, of which delay had made him skeptical, but said he wanted to give volunteering a thorough trial first. Recruiting which had begun again was again discouraged by this apparent irresolution.

Home rule is British law today. It only needs to be put into operation. If the Government is at last ready to curb the extreme Tories and keep its faith, well and good. If another fiasco impends Mr. Shortt might better have saved his breath.

There would be no objection to the label: "Made in Free Germany."

THE WASTE IN MILK.

The Food Administration should immediately take steps to prevent the waste in milk, due to the failure of the railroads to provide ice in shipping it to the cities. St. Louis dairymen complain that a great deal of milk sent from nearby territory sours in transit because it is not iced. Everyone who has traveled on commutation trains knows that this complaint is justified. After standing on hot platforms, the cans of milk are thrown into the baggage car. There the uniced fluid is churned by the motion of the car, and it is a wonder that any of it reaches the city fresh in very hot weather. Milk has had to be shipped a thousand miles, during this heated spell, the dairymen say, on the chance of getting some of it fresh. Travelers at Union Station could get no milk on some of the hottest days, and the supply also ran out at some of the largest restaurants.

Waste in milk is one of the worst food wastes, because of the labor in producing it. Calves have to be cared for about two years before they are fit to become milkers, and the average cow produces little enough for the labor. But, milk is perhaps the most valuable of all foods. Willful waste of it amounts almost to crime, especially now, when all food waste helps the country's enemies.

The award of its advertising to the Post-Dispatch by the Board of Election Commissioners was good business. It placed the advertising where it would get the best results, in the newspaper with the largest St. Louis circulation.

THE FLY'S LAST REFUGE.

The last refuge of the pestiferous fly is the country town, village and farmstead. The fight against the fly has been waged in the cities with such success that there is little demand for fly traps or the sticky or poison fly paper that used to be so common. Windows and doors are screened and the fly has been pursued almost to extermination. The extension of the sewer system to vaults in outhouses, and the more general attention to cleaning stables and alleys, has been fatal to the fly. The automobile, by displacing the horse, is also helping in fly destruction.

In the country, however, especially in the small towns lying along railroads, the fly still breeds almost unmolested. There is no sewerage, and the State Board of Health does not appear to have taken steps to compel house and hotel owners to put in sanitary equipment for outhouses or to keep stables clean. The condition of some of these places is such as to produce millions if not billions of flies in the summer season. Doors and windows are sometimes screened, but the breeding places of the flies are neglected. From them flies get to the railway station and are carried on trains to the cities, with any disease germs that may cling to them.

The State Board of Health can and should attend to this matter. All the campaigns, by word and action, in the cities will fail if flies are permitted to increase and multiply at will in the country districts.

THE WAR UNCLE SAM MADE.

This is the war that Uncle Sam made. This is the miner, loyal soul, that dug from the ground the shining coal that makes the steam that runs the plant that produces the stuff that equips the soldier that fights the war Uncle Sam made.

GERMAN FEARS.

More and more evidence accumulates to show that the iron of a great fear is entering into the soul of the German people.
 That letter of a German Lieutenant, which Gen. Pershing quoted in one of his recent dispatches, indicated that it has begun to affect the army; that the soldiers are bewildered and stunned by the events of the last few weeks and are inclined to believe, since they have already been so thoroughly deceived by the higher command, that probably the deception has been even greater than now appears.

But the depression at home is patently much greater than it is in the army. This is clearly indicated in the series of inspired articles in the press intended to break the news that the war will not end in victory this fall, but will last through another year and probably longer.

The purpose of these articles is, of course, heavily camouflaged. It is disguised behind bitter attacks upon President Wilson and America. The Frankfurt Zeitung and the Vienna Neue Freie Presse are telling their readers that the war rage in this country is burning so fiercely that it has kindled dying hopes in France and England; that no end of the struggle can be looked for until it has burned itself out. This is rather an astonishing change of tone from the studied policy of decrying America's war potentialities, but something had to be said to explain away the failure of the Kaiser's armies to win a decision in the field before another Christmas.

The Cologne Gazette, always regarded as the Government's official mouthpiece, has had to go to great trouble to try to persuade its readers that the defeat in the Marne salient was nothing more than a strategic retirement. Baron von Ardenne has been forced to confess that it would be "a piece of dangerous self-deception to deny that Foch's counter attack or rather his concentrated return-offensive, conceived on an extensive scale, had brought him noteworthy advances."

It would be premature to predict an early collapse of German morale, of course. There is a conventional English and American belief that the German is not a good stayer when things are going wrong; that his moral fiber is not strong enough to withstand a continued strain of dismay and discouragement. This may or may not be so, but he is too good a fighter to go to pieces at once. But though he knew he himself would remain steadfast in adversity, there is another element in his problem to which continued adversity must be fatal.

What is probably keeping Junkerdom awake these nights is worrying over what Austria and Turkey and Bulgaria are going to do about it. It has been hard enough to hold them in line when everything was going well with the German arms. Will they stand firm through another war winter with the prospects of peace and victory more remote than they have been at any time in the last four years?

SERGEANT EMPKEY'S INDISCRETION.

Annuling Sergt. Arthur Guy Empey's commission as Captain because of his unconsidered remarks in a Washington theater seems to be rather harsh punishment for such an offense. Nevertheless, the job of Captain in the United States army is a very important one, a job for which a tendency to break into loose and improper conversation is not a recommendation.

As a volunteer himself, Sergt. Empey might naturally be somewhat prejudiced in favor of other volunteers. But his invidious comparison between drafted men and volunteers in which he spoke contemptuously of the drafted men as being "compelled" to fight was unjust and unwarranted. Even if it be considered nothing but an indiscretion, it was indiscretion of an almost unpardonable kind.

Political forecast for Missouri—Dry and somewhat chilly.

ICELAND A SOVEREIGN STATE.

Little Iceland, through a recent treaty with Denmark, has now become a sovereign state. Its population of about 80,000, living on the 7000 habitable square miles of its total area of 40,000, have had sort of home rule since 1874, but the King of Denmark had the power of veto on Icelandic legislation. The island will now have its own flag and be one of the federation of Danish states.

Situated 500 miles from the nearest civilized country, Iceland's people have not set a mark on European history, except in the field of literature. Their isolation gave them plenty of opportunity for thought, and since the middle of the eleventh century they have produced valuable and interesting works of a poetic heroic character. It is to their poets and writers that they owe the national spirit which has at length won them independence.

Germany, professing to have the interest of the small nationalities at heart, has opposed Icelandic independence, on the ground that it would mean that Iceland would be seized by Great Britain or America. Of course the German rulers knew what they would do in the premises, supposing that they had any use for the distant and rather unproductive little island.

Sergt. Empey can sympathize with the parrot that talked too much.

FALL FASHION IN CAMPAIGN POSTERS.

THE HORNETS OF HATE.

A GRINNING black youth on his way to the station,
 His white teeth gleam in a smile of elation;

His country had called him and, eager to go,
 He boasted his power to throttle the foe.
 Along with his brothers, all proud to respond,
 To the call of the rumpus just over the pond,
 Young Rastus pranced by with a gleam in his eye,

While ol' Mammy, aside, heaved a tear and a sigh;
 And the band played a ditty to cheer him along
 While the engine of fate clanged its deafening song:

"Come-along-son—Come-along-son."

An acquaintance of Rastus in friendly advance
 Had asked if 'twere true he was going to France;

And Rastus replied as he sobered and sighed,
 "Ah'm down" fo' Buhlin if dey pays fo' mah ride.
 We may stop a few houahs in the city of Paris,
 But we'll go git de Kiser if P'ushin kin spare us."

And then when the Star-Spangled Banner was hoist,
 And the heart throbbled with pride and the eyelids grew moist,

The band started "Dixie" to cheer him along
 While the engine of fate clanged its deafening song:

"Come-along-son—Come-along-son."

Tonight while the moonlight is drowsily beaming

A voice whispers faint from the shades of the past
 And a rugged black face on her vision is cast.

She can feel his caress as he leans for the train
 As one of the "10th" in the grapple with Spain,
 The gay fighting Daddy of Rastus—the child,
 The gay fighting Pappy who fought as he smiled,

And the band struck up "Dixie" to speed him along
 While the engine of fate clanged its deafening song:

"Come-along-son—Come-along-son."

They'll go to "Buhlin" like the hornets of hate—
 Like the unerring shafts from the bow-string of fate—

Like the black bats from Hades, they'll batter and bite
 Till the Kiser dethrones in a panic of fright.

Smile on, Pete and Rastus and Booker T. Boone!
 Your chance at "Buhlin" will be possible soon.

By the side of the white boys you'll scamper along
 While the engines of Death boom their battle-mad song:

"Come-along-son—Come-along-son."

WILL FERRELL

All the river towns expect to be rejuvenated by the revival of river traffic, but from what we see, all that the residents of most of those towns are doing is to sit around on the river front waiting for the boats to show up. The spectacle of 50 men in a river town building a pier at which the boats might land would attract crowds of sightseers from other river towns which expect to have the breath of life blown back into them by the steamboat whistle. Some of those men, we are afraid, have sat there too long. About all they will leave is a vacancy in the lounging row, and one easily filled. The river is in one respect its own enemy—it goes by. There is something fascinating about that, and if the river would not do it people would not sit and look at it the way they do.

Maybe one reason why it has been found so difficult to eliminate the saloon is that almost nowhere outside a millinery is such a lavish use made of mirrors. The vanity of man is quite as keen as the vanity of woman, and the saloon keeper knows it. No doubt many a man has been helped by watching himself go by in a saloon mirror, and like as not many a man has been reformed by the spectacle of himself drinking at the bar. One cannot expect saloon keepers to know all those fine points in psychology. What they know broadly is that men like to see themselves life size, that they like to preen and look wise, and that mirrors make trade. The saloon keeper is not going out of business because he did not understand saloon keeping.

Sir: This sign over at Woodrider probably indicates where beer got its name:

William Beers
 Big Beer

Also, some of the trials bottled beer is going through are indicated by this sign at Kirkwood:

Bottled Beer 4 1/2 %

What does that mean, if anything? There is a sign in Illinois which shows what some men are doing to take care of others' jobs while those others are at the front:

Justice of the Peace
 Undertaker
 General Insurance

On Franklin avenue this sign appears:

Just about the time one begins to wonder what this can mean, one discovers a translation of it immediately beneath, as follow:

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

A TURKISH DREAM.

From the New York Evening Post.

THE rumors that a break between Germany and Turkey is threatened should be taken with a grain of salt, larger than usual. The Tasvir Evkari, a Turkish newspaper, quoted as advocating extreme pan-Turanism, is the most rabid, emotional and chauvinist daily in Constantinople. It does not represent the Government, nor the ruling faction of the Union and Progress. The Tanin is the official newspaper, which always contains the opinions of the controlling Young Turk party, of which Enver and Talaat Pasha are the leaders. And until the Tanin publishes a leader advocating a breach with Germany, or putting Turkish demands at their maximum, large slices of Thrace, the Dobruja, with its partially Mohammedan population, the Crimea, Caucasus and Egypt, we may conclude that the Central Alliance, from Mosul to Hamburg, still remains unbroken.

On the other hand, it is perfectly clear that the rigid Ottoman censorship would not have allowed the Tasvir Evkari editor to express himself as freely as he did had not Talaat and his associates felt the time opportune to exert a certain amount of pressure on their allies for the realization of their aims. Less than one year ago the most sanguine Young Turk, who dreamed of the desolate glories that once were Tamerlane's, would have named as his race's utmost goal no higher stakes than the status quo ante—the Ottoman empire of 1914, with a free hand to Turanize in plain English, terrorize—the subject races, Armenians, Greeks, Arabs and Jews, at leisure. But the breakdown of Russia has opened new vistas, stretching through the Caucasus and Turkestan to the walls of China, or, at any rate, the confines of Mongolia. The Dobruja, and even Thrace, with exception of a slice of territory to the circle Adrianople, now bisected by the Bulgarian boundary, really constitute no limit in the iridescent chain of Young Turk imperialism. They are just pawns to be changed against Germany's, now stationed on the Black Sea, at Batum, at Baku, at the oil districts. Talaat and his associates are modern Genghis Khans. They massacre hundreds of thousands of Armenians, like their medieval hero. But they also have their eye on the factors of national prosperity, mineral wealth. The immense, haughty Russian oil fields are worth a trifle with Germany's diplomats. Germany, beaten in France, may be bluffed, intimidated into concessions in the Caucasus.

"What," says the pan-Turanian statesman, "what have we gained by our alliance with the Central Powers? We have lost Mesopotamia, half of Syria; England, by occupation of Tenedos and Imbros, stands at our gates, and has made the Dardanelles valueless. Starvation and disease have decimated the empire. Our army has been wrecked by these same natural forces. We have lost our command of the Mohammedan world by our loss of the holy cities. The might of the Commander of the Faithful has been rendered a mockery in the eyes of all the followers of the Prophet. Now we demand that you, our allies, who have been saved by our adherence from destruction, who denuded our farms of their products, of grain and cattle, to feed your selves while our own people starved, make good that dream of pan-Turanism, an empire of Turanian culture, stretching from the Golden Horn to China, which your professors have these many years been painting as a possibility." One can imagine Enver Pasha, using these words to his Tatar allies.

On the other hand, the German answer would be brutally and cynically unedifying. The Teutonic diplomat would frankly admit everything the Turk said, and then would point out that facts, not dreams, must be the basis of any bargain. True, Turkey had exhausted herself giving Germany aid. Both materially and in a military way, now, Turkey had completely shot her bolt. It was she that needed German assistance today, not the reverse. In order to force favorable terms, a seller must have an alternative customer. This Turkey has not at present. She could not sell out to the Entente (1) because the Entente would blow Constantinople to pieces if she attempted any such course; (2) because the Entente could not make peace with Turkey unless Syria and Armenia were lopped off the Ottoman empire first. The Entente, in other words, could not negotiate with Turkey on any possible terms; Turkey had, by the Armenian and Syrian and Greek massacres, burned her bridges behind her. She and Germany must hang together or she (Turkey) would absolutely hang separately. The only absolutely clear and unmistakable terms of any Entente peace offer must include the dismemberment of Turkey. A cynical Teutonic diplomat might add that an Entente envoy could not even negotiate with the representatives of a Power that, it is true, only for the best pan-Turanian motives, had sanctioned the murder of 1,000,000 Armenians, 150,000 Arabs and 100,000 Greeks. Only Germany could properly appraise and value these acts.

Oh, Money! Money!

A Story of Sudden Wealth.

By Eleanor H. Porter.

Author of "Pollyanna."

"Oh, that's my cousin Grace when she was 16. She died; but she was a wonderful girl. I'll tell you about her."

"Yes, do," urged Mr. Smith, and even the closest observer, watching his face, could not have said that he was not absorbedly interested in Miss Flora's story of "my cousin Grace."

It was not until the last leaf of the album was reached that they came upon the picture of a small girl, with big, hungry eyes looking out from beneath long lashes.

"That's Mellicent—where you're hearing, you know—when she was little," Miss Flora frowned disapprovingly. "But it's horrid, poor child!"

"But she looks so—so sad," murmured Mr. Smith.

"Yes, I know. She always did," Miss Flora sighed and frowned again. She hesitated, then burst out, as if irresistibly impelled from within. "It's only just another case of never having what you want, Mr. Smith. And it ain't 'cause they're poor, either. They ain't poor—not like me. I mean, Frank's always done well, and he's been a good provider; but mean. Not that I'm saying anything against Jane. I ain't. She's a good woman and she's very kind to me. She's always saying what she'd do for me if she only had the money. She's a good housekeeper, too, and her house is as neat as wax. But it's just that she never thinks she can use anything she's got till it's so out of date she don't want it. I dress—make for her, you see, so I know—about her sleeves and skirts, you know. And if she ever does wear a decent thing she's so afraid it will rain she never takes any comfort in it!"

"Well, that is—unfortunate."

"Yes, ain't it? And she's brought up that poor child the same way. Why, from babyhood Mellicent never had her rattles till she wanted blocks, nor her blocks till she wanted dolls, nor her dolls till she was big enough for beans. And that's what made the poor child always look so wall-eyed and hungry. She was hungry—even if she did get enough to eat."

"Mrs. Blaisdell probably believed in economy," hazarded Mr. Smith.

"Economy! My stars, I should think she did! But, there, I ought not to have said anything of course. It's a good trait. I only wish some other folks I could mention had more of it. There's Jim's wife, for instance. Now, if she's got 10 cents, she'll spend 15—and 5 more to show she spent it. She and Jane ought to be shaken up in a bag together. Why, Mr. Smith, Jane doesn't let herself enjoy anything. She's always keeping it for a better time. Though sometimes I think she does enjoy just seeing how far she can make a dollar go. But Mellicent don't, nor Frank, and it's hard on them."

"I should say it might be," Mr. Smith was looking at the wistful eyes under the long lashes.

"Tis; and 'tain't right, I believe."

Pennock, and her father had gone back to the store, Mrs. Blaisdell took up the matter of "Poor Maggie" again.

"I've been thinking what you said," she began, "about our calling her 'poor Maggie,' and I've made up my mind it's because we're all so sorry for her. You see, she's been so unfortunate, as I said. Poor Maggie! I've so often wished there was something I could do for her. Of course, if we only had money—but we haven't; so I can't. And even money wouldn't take away her father, either. Oh, mercy! I didn't mean that really—not the way it sounded," broke off Mrs. Blaisdell, in shocked apology. "I only meant that she'd have her father to care for, just the same."

"He's something of a trial, I take it, eh?" smiled Mr. Smith.

"Trial! I should say he was. Poor Maggie! How ever she endures it, I can't imagine. Of course, we call him Father Duff, but he's really not any relation to us—I mean to Frank and the rest. But their mother married him when they were children, and they never knew their own father, so he's the only father they know. When their mother died, Maggie had just entered college. She was 18, and such a pretty girl! I knew the family even then. Frank was just beginning to come home. Well, of course, Maggie had to come home right away. None of the rest wanted to take care of him, and Maggie had to. There was another Duff sister then—a married sister (she's died since), but she wouldn't take him, so Maggie had to. Of course, none of the Blaisdells wanted the care of him—and he wasn't their father, anyway. Frank was wanting to marry me, and Jim and Flora were in school, and wanted to stay there, of course. So Maggie came. Poor girl! It was real hard for her. She was so ambitious, and so fond of books. But she came, and went right into the home and kept it, so Frank and Jim and Flora could live there just the same as when their mother was alive. And she had to do all the work, too. They were too poor to keep a girl. Kind of hard, wasn't it—and Maggie only 18!"

"It was, indeed!" Mr. Smith's lips came together a bit grimly.

"Well, after a time Frank and Jim married, and there was only Flora and Father Duff at home. Poor Maggie tried then to go to college again. She was over 21, and supposed to be her own mistress, of course. She found a place where she could work and pay her way through college, and Flora said she'd keep the house and take care of Father Duff. But, dear me! it wasn't a month before that ended, and Maggie had to come home again. Flora wasn't strong and the work fretted her. Besides, she never could get along with Father Duff, and she was trying to learn dressmaking, too. She stuck it out till she got sick, though, then, of course, Maggie had to come back."

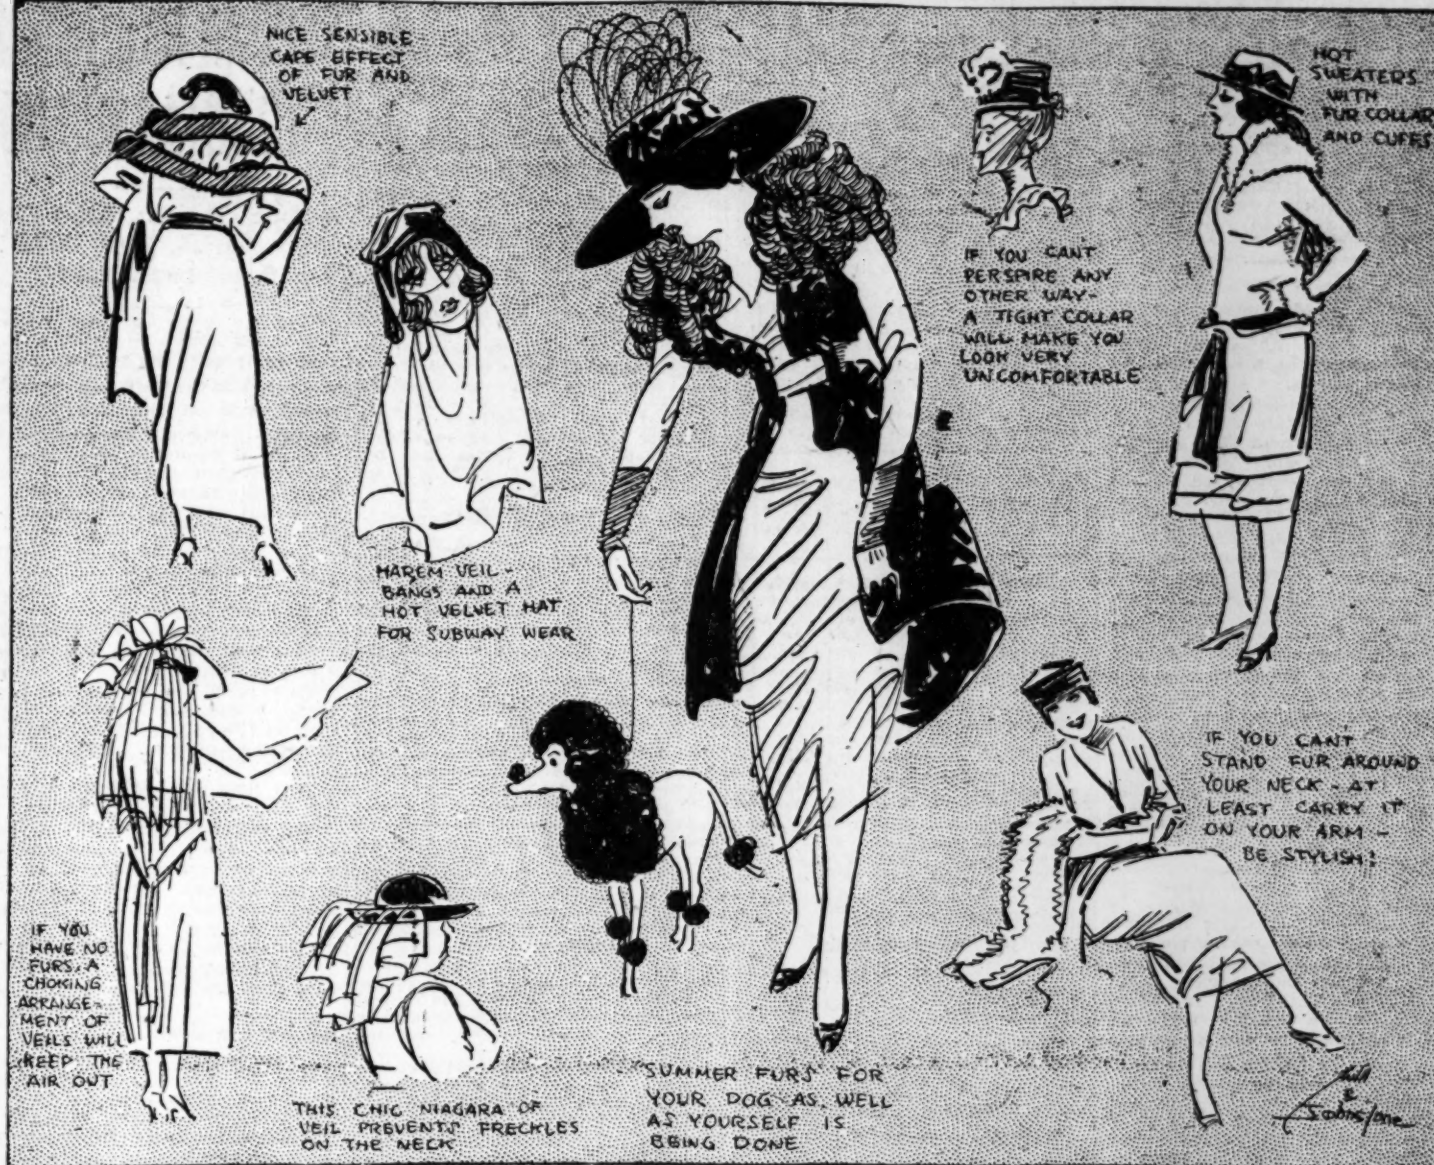

"Well, by Jove!" ejaculated Mr. Smith.

How to Keep Warm in Middle of August

If You Have No Smothery Furs to Broil in, Those Choky Veils That Are Being Worn Will Serve to Keep You Half Suffocated While You Bake.

THE thermometer having had a rush of mercury to the head, the fur season is officially on, and the fur-wearing beauties are out in force, as may be noted on Olive street any day.

But summer furs are not alone in the field as fashionable fureless cooks this season. Varieties of sweaters are seen with spots of Maltese cat fur to prevent any ventilation because of dropped stitches. These are suffocatingly good looking. Then there are veils.

Some of the ladies, it is to be feared, have acquired the ostrich-like notion that because their faces are all swathed up the rest of the picture is concealed. At any rate it is to be observed that many individuals in the silk stocking battalion still fail to make the hose seams run straight up the back.

EGG BARLEY SOUP

TAKE two oxtails, about two to three pounds, and set them on to cook, with a soup bunch, prepared and cut into small pieces; salt, and two quarts of water, and let them boil for two hours. Do not have the oxtails cut up, but keep them in one piece.

After two hours take out the oxtails. Do not add any water for the water which cooked away, since this has been considered in the amount of water given at first. Make a pancake dough, a little stiff, from two eggs, one cup of water and rice flour—about one cupful should be enough. Let it drop through a colander or strainer into the boiling soup. Let it cook for five minutes, when it is ready to serve.

STEWED OXTAILS

THE oxtails previously taken out put into a cooking pot and just cover them with hot water. Add a tablespoonful of butter substituted, two large onions, peeled and minced, one carrot, scraped and grated; six allspice, two bay leaves and one clove. Lastly, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Let all this simmer for one hour. Then stir up one tablespoonful of rice flour with one-half cup of water, add it, let it come to a boil once more and serve with potatoes.

APPLE SAUSAGES

TAKE an apple sauce, which must be rather stiff. To one pint add four eggs and so much bread crumbs as it will hold. From this mixture form small sausages and fry them in cornmeal or butter substitute, nice and brown. Serve them with sugar and cinnamon mixed, or with a sauce made from a cup of light corn syrup and a cup of water, into which a tablespoonful of cornstarch has been stirred. Flavor with one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon and let cool. This sauce can be flavored with lemon or vanilla or any other desired flavor instead of cinnamon and is very nice to serve with any kind of a pudding.

Save every drop of juice.
Save every grain of sugar.

The Sandman Story for Tonight

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

The Quarrel on the Desk

ONE night on top of the desk in the library there was a great commotion. The penholder jumped up from the tray where it was resting quite a few minutes before because it heard the writing paper tell the blotter it was a copycat.

"You try to copy everything I have on," said the writing paper. "It isn't because you look at all as I do after you copy what I have, but because I just hate to feel that you are always here ready to copy and repeat everything."

"You need not be so set up yourself," replied the blotter. "If it were not for the ink, where would you be. I should like to know? You would not be of the least importance. And that was where the penholder jumped out of the tray. 'I won't stand for any such slight,' it said. 'The ink, indeed! Where would the ink be or the writing paper, I should like to know, if I were not here to do all the work? I am the important one on the desk, I wish you all to understand.'"

"You are no more important than I am," said the penholder, jumping up from the tray.

"Oh! you," said the penholder, with scorn. "I do not consider you in the same class with me, Mr. Penholder. Why, you do not know your own mind for a minute at a time; you are forever changing your mind. Else why do you always carry that rubber about with you? When I put a thing on paper I stand by it; it is there for good; no changing me!"

Poor pencil was quite humbled by this attack upon him by penholder and he slid back in the tray and said no more.

"If you think I will take second place with you, Mr. Penholder," said the writing paper, "you are mistaken. It is I who rule here. I am the most important. For what work would you have to do if I did not catch your thoughts and lead you on? Get back in the tray beside the pencil, and know that I am the one who reigns on this desk."

Writing paper forgot all about its quarrel with the blotter when the penholder claimed to be the most important one on the desk, and it quite forgot the importance of the ink, when suddenly open came the cover to the inkstand and the ink began to sputter.

"What in the world are you all making such a noise about?" it asked. "Talking about importance on this desk, have you forgotten me? Who, I ask, makes it possible for the penholder to make his mark in the world? I do. Who makes it possible for writing paper to hold thoughts? I do. So if you will all keep quiet now that I have told you the truth about the matter, I shall be glad to have my rest," and down into the inkwell went the ink with an angry spatter that covered the writing paper and the blotter, too, with big black spots.

The blotter, of course, did not mind, and took it all in, but the writing paper was spoiled, for it was too proud to ask the blotter to help it get rid of the black spots, so instead of the quarrel doing any good or proving anything, it ended as quarrels always do—in someone getting the worst of it and no one getting any good.

Owgoost Herrmann Evidently Believes He Has to Chase Hal to Chasten Him

STATE NET TITLE WON BY 93-POUND ST. LOUIS PLAYER

Frail Miss Corinne Gould Overcomes All Styles and Weights in Kansas City Event.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 13.—Miss Corinne Gould won the women's tennis championship of Missouri here yesterday from Miss Evelyn Seavey, 6-3, 6-1, thus returning a St. Louis winner in every event entered.

Of the four titles possible in the State tourney Ted Drewes won one, Drewes and Arthur Niemoeller the doubles and Miss Gould the third. All were victors because of consistent and superior play.

Probably Miss Gould's strength was the surprise of the tournament. A tiny girl of 93 pounds, young in years, with a manner more gentle than is expected from a tennis champion, this modest visitor brought into the tourney a slow, dinky, dribbly chop-stroke and by using it often made it win.

Miss Gould has no service to speak of. Her strength lies in her persistent pursuit of every return and an almost uncanny ability to chop it back to put her opponent on the defensive. Her judgment of back lines and net height is remarkable, inches being sufficient for her, where others require feet or yards.

Against opposition that ranged from good to brilliant, Miss Gould went through a week of play here without the loss of a single set. She met players of the steady, careful type three of the dashing, smashing style and racket wielders of tested skill. She met them all advance to the net and congratulate her.

Chase Admits He Gambled, but Not on Ball Games; League Will Hear Charges

Suspended Reds' Star Declares He Can Prove His Speculations Were On Horse Races, Not Baseball.

THE ax is suspended over the neck of Hal Chase, one of the greatest players that ever drew on a first baseman's glove. At present, Chase is under suspension for the remainder of the season as a result of an announcement by Garry Herrmann, owner of the Cincinnati club, following a conference with Manager Mathewson. In baseball circles, however, it is generally admitted that the first sacker has played his last professional game.

Chase's first trouble with the Reds came on Aug. 7, in New York, just previous to a double header, when he was suspended by Manager Mathewson for "indifferent playing." However, yesterday from Cincinnati came reports that the real charges against the player were that he had gambled on the games and "influenced" contests. These charges, according to President Herrmann, will be thoroughly probed by the National League owners at a meeting to be held either Thursday or Friday. At that time Chase will have a chance to clear himself.

First Case in Years

If the charges against Chase are sustained it will be the first time in many years that anything like this has come up in the national pastime. Some years ago a promising umpire, coming up from the American Association, was shunted back for seemingly no reason at all. However, later it developed he had been gambling on games. Then, in 1915, Federal League propaganda had it that Earl Hamilton, Brown pitcher, was wagering on the games, but nothing ever came of the report.

Yesterday when Manager Mathewson, who is here with the Reds for a series with the Cardinals, was approached concerning the subject, he stated that he could not discuss the case at the present time.

However, at the same time in Cincinnati President Herrmann notified Chase that his suspension would stand until the National League had passed upon the charges that had been preferred against the player.

"I hope and feel that Hal will be able to clear himself, and he will be given a copy of the charges Thursday or Friday at the same time that they are officially filed with the league," stated Herrmann. He added, though, "that until then he could not discuss the matter."

Chase in a statement to a Post-Dispatch correspondent in Cincinnati yesterday, while admitting that he visited pool rooms and gambled, said that it was not on the result of baseball games. He also said that he could clear himself without any trouble. Part of his statement is as follows:

"I am mistakenly charged with things I never even thought of. The suspension order struck me all in a heap and is wrong and unjust."

Mathewson, who is one of the squar-est men in the game, has been loaded up with the wrong information by knuckers and people who did not know what they talked about. The suspension read that I was indefinitely suspended, with no details as to the charge.

"Perhaps it is hardly best for me to agitate the affair or talk too freely right now. I've tried to play ball the best I could, but at times have had my off days. Sometimes I felt ashamed to face my friends, after I had fallen down at a critical time; but I was always trying. I'd like to see the so-called evidence."

Let's not dodge around the bush. I'm accused of frequenting pool rooms and making baseball bets. I've gone into pool rooms and made bets on horses, but I say right here have made no baseball bets and have never thrown the team. As a result, rumors have it that I was wagering $100 at a crack. Who would either take or offer a baseball bet running up into the hundreds? As a sample of the wild talk, I was accused in New York of betting against the Reds, but of offering a certain Giant pitcher $800 to let us beat him.

"I will see Mr. Herrmann, and hope that he will believe my statement. I think he will give me an even break as to the money due me from the club, nearly $900. If I can't get that without going to court, I'll probably do the latter, though I do not wish to worry any one as fair and honorable as Mr. Herrmann."

According to a man who is traveling with the Reds, the Chase matter has been developing since the first of June and that the officials have a certain amount of evidence against Prince Hal.

In the East recently it became so bad that the opposing players would yell at him: "Well, Hal, what are the odds today?"

Chase's batting during this period has been very poor and many times he has fanned with the winning runs on the bases. His fielding also has been off color.

Chase is 35 years old and started his major league career with the Yankees in 1905. He quit the club in the summer of 1908 and played in an "outlaw" league in California. The next year he was reinstated and remained with the Yankees until sold to the White Sox in 1913. Here he also had trouble. In 1914 and 1915 he was with the Federals, at which time he was declared in 1916 he was signed by the Reds. He led the National League in hitting in 1916, with 329.

CARDS ARRANGING SECOND MORTGAGE, TO TOTAL $90,000

A Notice States It Must Be Paid by Jan. 25, 1919, Under Foreclosure Penalty.

By John E. Wray

Subscribers to the $60,000 or more raised to tide the Cardinals over their recent financial difficulties received circulars yesterday announcing the issue of a second deed of trust or the equivalent thereto for $75,000, dated July 15, and payable with interest Jan. 15, 1919, covering their assessments.

In addition, the proviso is attached that $15,000 more, to enable the club to stagger through the season to Sept. 2 and through the winter months, will be issued. This also will be in note form, due January, 1919.

This means that, in addition to the $125,000 still due Mrs. Britton, the club will have to settle a second indebtedness of about $90,000, with interest.

This falls due in midwinter. It will find a treasury the bottom of which seems already to have been scraped. The deed provides that the property shall be sold in case of nonpayment. Unless more "angels" than now seem to float around on this earth can be found, the Cardinals will be knocked down to the highest bidder, early in February, 20 days after Jan. 15, to be exact.

All for the Best.

This is no disaster—it merely means the passing of community ownership idea and perhaps the not-hole idea, both fathered by the aggressive James C. Jones. The property doubtless will be bid in by the score-and-ten of subscribers game enough to come to the club's financial rescue. They are men able to carry the organization through the stormy period to come and to re-establish it when skies brighten.

Second Game Today

The second game of the series between the two clubs will be played today, with Bill Sherdel opposing Jimmy Ring. After the contest tomorrow the Eastern clubs will for a series with the men of Hendricks.

RED SOX HURLERS WEAKENING; TEAM LOSES 3 STRAIGHT

With Cleveland Hurlers in Fine Shape, American League Play Race Is Open.

Both the Red Sox and Cubs, pace-makers in the major league pennant races, lost ground in the contests played yesterday. As a result of defeats, the lead of the Hubtown crew has been cut to two full games, while the Bruins hold a margin of six battles in the National League struggle. When the Red Sox were beaten by the Yankees yesterday, 2-0, the coach of Barrow dropped its third straight game. "Babe" Ruth, who has been pitching better ball than any flinger on the club, was the hurler beaten by Huggins' charges, despite the fact that he allowed only four hits. Hank Robinson, a former Cardinal, held the Red Sox to three safeties.

At the present time the Red Sox hurlers are in their first real slump of the season. Carl Mays and Joe Bush, the two right-hand "aces" of the club, had their troubles in the West, being driven off the hill several times, while both have been beaten by the Yankees. Then Sam Jones, the other right-hander, also is going badly. Ruth is the only one holding up his end.

Indian Hurlers Improve

Against this, the Indians have Stanley Coveleskie, Guy Morton and Jim Hagby going at top form, while Fred Coombs, the left-hander, also is coming through. Changes may come in the American League standing the latter part of this week when the two rivals meet in a pennant series.

However, the slump of the Cubs is not taken seriously, as the men of Mitchell need only to play at a level until Sept. 2 to clinch the pennant. The club still has 30 games to play. According to a schedule announced yesterday by John B. Foster, secretary of the Giants, the club has only 12 more contests to play.

Oscar Tuero, the Cuban right-hander, who has been sent here, there and everywhere by the Cardinals this season, rejoined the club yesterday, was sent to hurling hill and came through with a 3-1 victory over the Reds. After the spring training trip Tuero was sent to Little Rock, recalled, sent back to the Travelers and came back when the Southern disbanded. He then went to Bridgeport, where he sojourned until he bobbed up here yesterday.
